A walkthrough for Adjudicators on the ATOP Pearl Awards portal — the final stage of judging, where you rank each bracket's finalists into your order of merit.

Screenshots are from the portal's staging site while the finals round is being rolled out. Sample category names, finalists, and copy are for illustration and may differ from the final content.

1. Getting your adjudicator access

Unlike the Validator role, you cannot request to be an adjudicator — an ATOP administrator appoints you and assigns the award categories you will judge. You don't need to set anything up.

If you already have a portal account, the admin can grant the role to it directly. If you don't, register first at tourismofficersph.com/register, verify your email, and give the admin the address you signed up with.

Once you've been appointed, sign out and sign back in so the new role takes effect, and a Finals section appears in your dashboard.

2. Your finals queue

Finals lists every bracket you've been assigned. A bracket is one contest: a category, at one LGU level (Province, Component City, and so on). Categories that aren't judged by level — an individual or an officers' organisation, say — have a single bracket covering all entrants.

The screenshot shows the 'atop' Member Portal for an adjudicator. The left sidebar contains navigation links: 'Main site', 'ADJUDICATOR', 'Finals', 'Award Categories', and 'Profile'. The main content area is titled 'ADJUDICATOR · FINALS' and 'Finals'. It includes an explanatory paragraph: 'Each bracket is its own contest. Put its finalists in your order of merit — top of the list is your Grand Winner. Every adjudicator's positions are averaged, and the lowest average rank wins.' Below this is a progress bar showing '2 of 3 brackets ranked' and '1 still to rank'. A filter dropdown is set to 'Still to rank', with a note that '1 bracket won automatically (a single finalist) — see "All brackets"'. A card for bracket #12, 'Most Outstanding Tourism Officers Organization', shows 'All entrants' and '4 finalists' with a 'Rank finalists' button. The bottom left has a 'BACK TO MAIN SITE' link. The top right shows the user 'Adjudicator One'.

The bar at the top tracks how many of your brackets are done. The list starts filtered to Still to rank; switch it to All brackets to see the ones you've already submitted.

Some brackets are won without a ballot: where only one finalist reached the finals, that finalist is the Grand Winner automatically, and there is nothing for you to rank. Those are called out separately and don't count against your progress.

3. Read the finalists before you rank

Open a bracket with Rank finalists. Each finalist has a Review button that opens their full dossier — executive summary, the narrative written against every scoring criterion, the entry video, supporting documents, the declaration, and the LCE endorsement.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Bohol Association of Tourism Officers (BATO) is a 48-LGU organisation that turned fragmented municipal tourism offices into a single, data-driven provincial network. In the coverage year it delivered province-wide visitor tracking, a carrying-capacity dashboard, and a signed 2026-2030 roadmap — while posting a 31% rise in recorded arrivals.

INTERVIEW NOTES optional — private to you

Anything from the online interview that informed your ranking...

Your ranking locks once submitted.

✓ SUBMIT RANKING

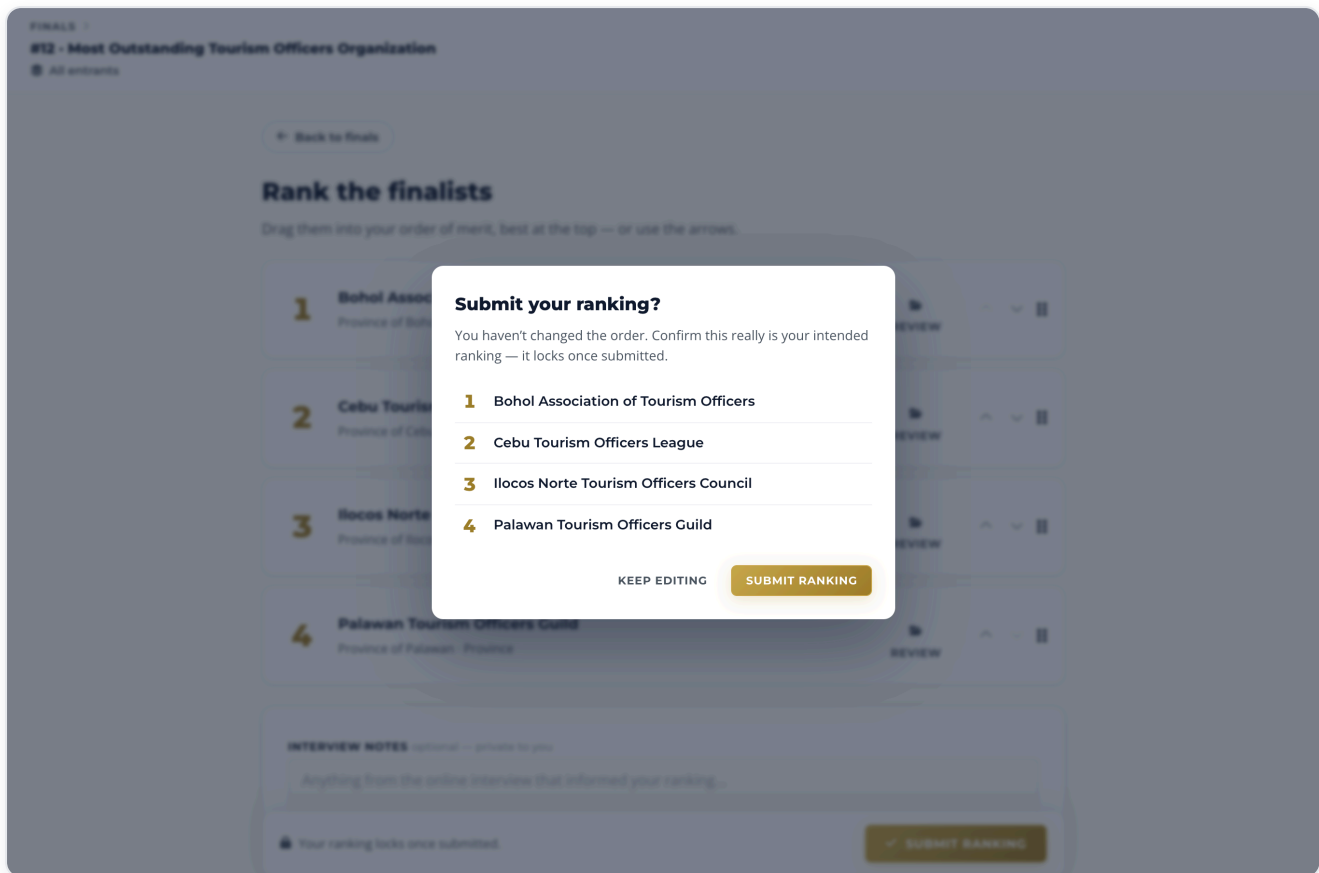

Every position must be used exactly once — first, second, third, and so on — so there are no ties on your ballot. You cannot give two finalists the same place.

Interview notes below the list are optional and private to you. Nothing you write there is shown to the other adjudicators or to the entrants.

Your work saves as you go (you'll see Draft saved), so you can leave and come back. A draft is not a ballot: nothing counts until you submit it.

5. Submit — it locks

When the order is genuinely yours, choose Submit ranking. You'll be shown the exact order you're about to cast, and asked to confirm — and if you never moved anything, it says so, in case the list you were handed isn't really your judgement.

A submitted ranking is final. It locks immediately and you cannot change it. If you truly need to revise a submitted ballot, an ATOP administrator has to reopen it for you.

6. How the winner is decided

Once every adjudicator on the panel has submitted, each finalist's positions are averaged across all of you, and the lowest average rank wins the bracket:

- Grand Winner — lowest average rank
- First Runner-Up — second lowest
- Second Runner-Up — third lowest

So a finalist that most of the panel puts near the top will beat one that a single adjudicator loved but the others placed low.

If two finalists come out with exactly the same average, the tie is broken first by who collected more first-place positions, and then by head-to-head — which of the two more of the panel placed above the other. Only if the ballots genuinely cannot separate them does an ATOP administrator step in and record a decision.

You'll never see the panel's combined tallies yourself: each adjudicator's ranking stays independent. An administrator closes the category and the placements are recorded.

That's the full adjudicator journey: get appointed → read the dossiers → rank → submit. For anything else, contact an ATOP administrator.
